The Chicago Outdoor sportsmen show – A Celebration of the great outdoors (indoors).

Family fun for outdoor enthusiasts of ALL ages.

Looking for something fun to do this winter? Save the date and make tracks to the Donald E. Stephens Convention Center, Rosemont, IL just outside of downtown Chicago. If you love the great outdoors and you have a touch of the cabin fever set your sights on the Chicago Outdoor Sportsmen Show. This years show promises to be a fantastic and fun celebration for all.

Headliners this year include The Bass University, Brody the Bear, Archer Frank Addington and a whole host of local and regional anglers.

There is no better opportunity to learn from the best in the industry then at the Bass University. Six anglers, lead by Classic Champion Mike Iaconelli and Pete Gluszek will provide their students with 2 days of intensive instruction. (additional fee). Don't miss this opportunity to become a better bass angler.

Prepare to be wowed and awed at the Chicago Outdoor Sportsmen show. Brody the 1400 pound Kodiak Brown bear will amaze audiences with his incredible bond that he has with his owner and trainer Jeff Watson. Jeff raised Brody from the time he was just a cub, bottle feeding him in his arms. Now Jeff can easily sit on Brody's back and go for a "bear ride".

Frank Addington will be joining us at the show this year with his "Have Bow will travel tour". Frank was blessed with unusually good eyesight and an innate ability to shoot a bow. When you combine these two attributes, you end up with a unique individual that has the ability to hit a tiny target in mid air with a bow and arrow. Now if that is not hard enough Frank does this with the bow behind his back.

The Chicago Outdoor Sportsmen's Show will feature a world class 3D archery range, casting competitions, a catch and release trout pond and the 5000 gallon Hawg Trough. Premier anglers from all over the country will descend upon Chicago the last weekend of January to demonstrate and teach the techniques they have discovered that they can use to consistently catch fish.

Would you like to learn to cast a fly? Tie a fly? Or perhaps learn about fishing from a kayak? You will have all of those opportunities and more at the American Fly Fishing School Casting Pond.

The Illinois Department of Natural Resources will be joining the show this year and has pledged their participation and support of the event. DNR Chief Mark Miller will even be hosting a "campfire" chat on the main presentation stage.

The local fishermen will get the chance to learn from the local best including, Spence Petros, Dan Gopen, Dan Armatige, Greg Bohn, and many more.

Attendees will have an opportunity to shop for amazing deals on fishing tackle, boats, archery, outfitters, wildlife art, hunting supplies, charters, rafting, gun safes and knives, taxidermy plus so much more. The countries and worlds most prestigious fishing and hunting lodges will be on hand to provide you with unique travel opportunities. Destinations and family fun attractions await you around every corner at the sports show. You never know what you will see.
